Claudia Maturell serves as Community Outreach Coordinator at Green Acre | A Bahá'í Center of Learning, in Eliot, Maine. Here she facilitates collaboration with local organizations and individuals to serve the community by building capacities that contribute to the material and spiritual well-being of society. One of her primary focus is creating elevated, action-oriented spaces of discourse for individuals and families about social justice topics. In these unique discourse spaces Claudia combines her passion for justice and art by employing the arts as a tool to learn about prevalent social justice issues, including race and equality.
